PRESS RELEASE

Flight Assurance Enters Helicopter Safety Auditing Arena

On behalf of a major public utility, Flight Assurance expands safety auditing practice into the helicopter operating arena.

Tucson, September 25, 2015: Flight Assurance today announced it had successfully completed a full system operator of one of the largest helicopter construction operators in the world.

Following assistance rendered in placing an SK-76D helicopter into service, the same utility selected Flight Assurance to perform a full system safety audit on the helicopter operations of one of its key vendors. "I was extremely pleased to have been selected for this unique category of valuable business. The helicopter construction industry is emerging as a very safety conscious market segment and we are proud to assist them to meet the demanding standards of public utility work," said J. Bruce Huffman, President and Chief Executive Officer of Flight Assurance.

"A fresh look with years of helicopter specific industry experience was able to not only validate the operators industry best practices and continuing commitment, to IS-BAO Stage 2 Registration standards, but provided the utility with valuable insights into their vendor selection process while giving them the assurance that the operator was sound in policy and practice."

Headquartered in Tucson, AZ Flight Assurance is one of the nation's newest aviation consultancies specializing in operational regulatory consulting services for the operators of business aircraft.
